MEN’S HEALTH AND MANPOWER EXPO
SATURDAY, SEPT. 29, 2012
8 A.M. TO 2 P.M.
MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.
MULTIPURPOSE CENTER
1028 NORTHEAST 14TH STREET
GAINESVILLE, FL 32601-4612

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?
All men over the age of 40, particularly those who are Black or of Hispanic origin.

Why?
Though cancer affects people of all races, minority residents of Alachua County have disproportionately high rates of cancer deaths. In fact, Black men are twice as likely to die from certain cancers than are whites. Many of these deaths could be prevented by lifestyle changes and early detection of the cancer through regular screenings.

HOW CAN YOU HELP CHANGE THIS?
Get informed, empowered and become an advocate to encourage men — yourself, your friends and family — to make informed decisions on cancer prevention, early detection, survivor care and participation in medical research and clinical trials.

FREE BREAKFAST AND REFRESHMENTS
FREE DOOR PRIZES
FREE GIFTS
FREE CONSULTATION WITH EXPERTS
FREE HEALTH SCREENINGS

Breakfast starts at 8 a.m., followed by educational workshops where you can meet experts and discuss the latest advances in prevention and early detection of cancers that affect minority communities, like prostate, GI/colorectal, oral and pharyngeal cancer.

For more information, contact:
Shannon Pressey, MS
Coordinator, Annual Men’s Health Expo
University of Florida
Phone: 727-394-6089
Fax: 727-394-6014
Email: spressey@cop.ufl.edu

UF & Shands
The University of Florida Academic Health Center